

Faculty Trainer, Lactation Education – Job Description and Scope of Work

Purpose: Support the Executive Director in teaching our lactation education specialist 45-hour and 90-hour curriculum.

Time Commitment

- Faculty Trainer is expected to teach or co-teach our Lactation Education Course as available and needed throughout the year.
- It is estimated that the 45-hour course will be taught 4 times per year and the 90-hour course will be taught twice a year.
- Faculty will be asked their schedule preference at the start of the year.
- Faculty will also be asked to be on-call should an instructor get sick or be unavailable at the last minute.
- Prior to each course, we will identify which faculty are able to be on-call for the course dates.

Post-Event/ Miscellaneous

- Create or update all areas of curriculum, ensuring changes and updates are reflected in the PowerPoint and any printed materials including the list of References;
- Create and maintain all student records for course, including attendance, participation, homework, and post-course test results
- Provide all students with contact information for course director and faculty.
- Upon completion of course, debrief faculty on course results and emerging needs
- Annually, submit certifications and CV to ensure continuing education is ongoing and not delayed until just prior to expiration of certificates

Additional Information:

Candidates with skilled knowledge of lactation and/or maternal-child health and experience within the fields highly preferred. IBCLC or CLE/LC a plus. IBCLC strongly preferred and required for 90-hour course.

Candidates must have reliable transportation all throughout L.A. County. Candidates living within L.A. County preferred.

BreastfeedLA commits to inclusion, diversity, and equity as core values, embracing meaningful participation from diverse stakeholders and actively soliciting varied viewpoints. Our work is grounded in diversity, inclusion, and equity to facilitate our mission of commitment to protecting, promoting, and supporting breastfeeding in the communities we serve. BreastfeedLA works affirmatively to recruit a diverse group of faculty and staff. We are committed to increasing the numbers of underrepresented individuals, particularly women and people of color. BreastfeedLA works to ensure that our appointments and selection procedures consciously identify and evaluate people from underrepresented groups. We will also strive to remove sources of unconscious bias and will seek to correct situations where full and open exchange of ideas has been limited.
